

The last thing I want to do is spend any time cooped up next to someone on a cell phone anywhere! I do not want to pay extra to have the special equipment installed on the airlines. If there are people that think this is necessary, then setup a special section in the plane, preferably where they are most likely to die in a crash, and let them sit there and leave the rest of us in peace.